Expertise

Alastair's practice covers the whole spectrum of family law from financial matters through to care proceedings. He is also a specialist in all aspects of education law.

Prior to studying Law Alastair Martey qualified as a Social Worker and worked at the Barnardo's Children's Charity for two years. Upon completion of the BPTC, Alastair worked as an education advocate for the Communities Empowerment Network.

He specialised in school exclusions representing parents of children at Governors Disciplinary Committee hearings and Independent Review Panels.

He also represented parents at School Admission Appeal hearings and at the First Tier Tribunal (Special Educational Needs and Disability).

Directories

'I have had the pleasure of working with Alastair Martey in relation to the needs of vulnerable children with special educational needs. Alastair Martey is extremely bright and determined. His excellent work for these clients has led to special educational needs being met and exclusion decisions being overturned. It is extremely valuable to have a Barrister working in the area of Family Law with such an insight into education law obligations' Karen May; Solicitor; John Ford Solicitors
